AFFORDABLE CONNECTIVITY PROGRAM (ACP)

OEConnect, LLC. (OEConnect) offers discounted service to eligible households through the Affordable Connectivity Program, or ACP. The ACP is a government program that reduces customers' broadband monthly Internet access service bills. Households can qualify for ACP benefits if their total income is at or below 200% of the Federal Poverty Guidelines (ACP Eligibility Guidelines)¹ for a household of that size, if a member of the household is currently enrolled in Lifeline, or if at least one member of the household participates in a qualifying government program, including SNAP, Medicaid, SSI or the Free and Reduced-Price School Lunch Program or School Breakfast Program, as well as other specified programs. You can find out more about our ACP-discounted offerings and how to enroll by calling (607) 293-6622 or by visiting our website at Affordable Connectivity Program \(ACP\) - | OEConnect². If the Program ends, or if a participating household is no longer eligible, the household will be subject to OEConnect's regular rates, terms, and conditions.

The Affordable Connectivity Program (ACP) is a government program that reduces your broadband Internet access service bill. You may apply the ACP benefit to any OEConnect residential broadband service offering at the same terms available to households that are not eligible for ACP-supported service. You may obtain ACP-supported broadband service from any participating provider of your choosing, and you may transfer your ACP benefit to another provider at any time. OEConnect may disconnect your ACP-supported service after 90 consecutive days of non-payment. You will be subject to OEConnect's undiscounted rates and general terms and conditions if the program ends, if you transfer your benefit to another provider but continue to receive service from OEConnect, or if you de-enroll from the ACP. You may file a complaint against OEConnect via the Federal Communications Commission's Consumer Complaint Center.

I hereby consent to the transfer by OEConnect of my information to the National Lifeline Accountability Database for purposes of enrollment in the ACP. I further agree that all the information I provide to ACP may be collected, used, shared, and retained for the purposes of applying for and/or receiving the ACP benefit. I understand that if this information is not provided to the ACP Program Administrator (USAC), I will not be able to get ACP benefits.

I have read and understood the above disclosures, and I hereby consent to apply my ACP discount to broadband service offered by OEConnect, LLC.

About the ACP

The ACP is a Federal Communications Commission (FCC) program that provides a monthly internet service discount and a one-time connected device benefit from participating internet companies for qualifying low-income consumers.

Rules

If you qualify, your household can receive a monthly Affordable Connectivity Program (ACP) benefit of up to $30 to cover the cost of your internet service and up to $75 for qualifying households on Tribal lands. Through the program, your internet company may also offer a one-time internet connected device benefit of up to $100 for a computer, tablet, or laptop with a co-payment of more than $10 but less than $50.

Your household cannot get the ACP benefit from more than one company. You are only allowed to get one ACP benefit per household, not per person.

The Affordable Connectivity Program is separate from the FCC's Lifeline Program. If your household qualifies for both programs, you can apply for and receive both benefits.

Note: Internet companies must also meet certain criteria to participate in the ACP. Check with your company to determine if it participates.

What is a household?

A household is a group of people who live together and share income and expenses (even if they are not related to each other). Complete the ACP household worksheet to determine if more than one qualifying household is located at your address. If more than one person in your household participates in the ACP, you are breaking the FCC's rules and will lose your benefit.

Do not give your benefit to another person

The ACP benefit is non-transferable. You cannot give your benefit to another person, even if they qualify for the ACP.

Be honest on this form

You must give accurate and true information on this form and on all ACP related forms or questionnaires. If you give false or fraudulent information, you will lose your benefit (i.e., de-enrollment or being barred from the program) and the United States government can take legal action against you. This may include (but is not limited to) fines or imprisonment.

You may need to show other documents

If the ACP Administrator is not able to validate that you or someone in your household qualify by checking available electronic resources (including eligibility databases for the FCC's government agency partners), you may need to provide additional documents. For example, you may need to provide an official document that proves your participation in a qualifying government assistance program, your income, or your identity. Please include copies of your proof documentation when you submit your application to speed up processing time.

How Does the ACP Protect Consumers?

The rules protect Affordable Connectivity Program recipients by:

- Empowering consumers to choose the service plan that best meets their needs (including a plan they may already be on);
- Ensuring consumers have access to supported internet services regardless of their credit status;
- Prohibiting companies from excluding consumers with past due balances or prior debt from enrolling in the program;
- Preventing consumers from being forced into more expensive or lower quality plans in order to receive the ACP;
- Reducing the potential for bill shock or other financial harms;
- Allowing ACP recipients to switch companies or internet service offerings; and
- Providing a dedicated FCC process for ACP complaints at <https://consumercomplaints.fcc.gov>.
